Urgency Impact	Very urgent	Urgent	Normal
Large	Critical	High	Normal
Moderate	High	Normal	Low
Small	Normal	Low	Low

Definitions of impact level and urgency level

Impact		Urgency
Level	Definition	Level	Definition
Large	An enabling service is not operating correctly, and no backup/alternate means exist for the End-Customer.	Very Urgent	Urgency is elevated to Very Urgent when incident is critically affecting End-Customer's processes and becomes a showstopper, or when the incident is affecting a group of Users or a full department of the End-Customer. (e.g. multiple users unable to place/receive calls for a long period of time)
Moderate	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> An enabling service is not operating correctly, but backup/alternate means exist for the End-Customer. An enhancing service is not operating correctly, and no backup/alternate exists for the End-Customer. The incident is identified as confirmed fraud. 	Urgent	Normal urgency is elevated to Urgent when the incident is affecting End-Customer's processes, or when the incident is affecting more than one User.

Small	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • An enhancing service is not operating correctly, but backup means do exist for the End-Customer. • The End-Customer is unable to access Rainbow due to circumstances under the affected End-Customer's control (applies to End-Customer who have reliance upon systems or networks they control or Rainbow has no responsibility to support). • End-Customer identified, or was advised of, the issue before the impact to the service occurred. • Rainbow is fully functional, but at-risk due to loss of redundancy or capacity in its supporting architecture. • The incident is identified as suspected fraud. 	Normal	Normal incident response posture.

ALE will use reasonable efforts to provide feedback depending on the above-mentioned problem severity. ALE will provide periodic status and action plans to the Direct Reseller or Distributor. ALE shall not be required to provide Support Services relating to any problem arising out of:

3. Rainbow Service Level Agreement (SLA)

ALE will use all commercially reasonable efforts to make the monthly compounded regional SLI (Service Level Indicator) available for each region including all Rainbow services with a monthly uptime percentage of at least 99.9%.

Percentage of monthly uptime is availability is calculated as follow:

$(\text{Total} - \text{Downtime} - \text{Excluded downtime}) / (\text{Total} - \text{Excluded downtime}) > 99.9\%$

- Total means the total number of minutes over one month.
- Downtime means the total number of minutes over one month when Rainbow Service are not operational.
- Excluded downtime means:
 - Planned downtime (such as maintenance, upgrades) for which Service Supplier was provided prior notice through screen notice, notification or email;
 - Downtime lasting less than 15 minutes;
 - Downtime caused by circumstance not under ALE's control as force majeure (includes, but not limited to shortage, labor difficulties, war, floods, riots, act of terror, strikes, embargo, lock-out, civil disturbances or failure to obtain licenses or other required authorizations to operate the Service in a given territories), Your infrastructure, Your equipment and devices, third party internet access failures, third party carrier issues that are outside ALE's control, denial-of-service attacks and hacking.

Reference for detailed SLI calculation is the "Rainbow - Service Level Indicators and Objectives" document available on the Rainbow helpcenter.

3.1 Scope of ALE services

As a reminder, the access to the PSTN network is not part of the services provided by ALE, i.e. the routing of outgoing phone calls through the public network to their destinations as well as the routing of incoming public phone calls to the Rainbow platform. It is the responsibility of our carrier partners to interface their operator's services to the Rainbow platform. Rainbow supports three ways of interconnecting SIP Trunks of our partners:

1. A connection over internet (OTT Over-The-Top) which requires a secure trunk (SIP-TLS/SRTP),
2. A dedicated fiber cross-connection: ALE offers a service based on OVH Cloud Connect Dedicated enabling a fiber connection from Equinix to OVH. It is the partner responsibility to bring their services to Equinix, ALE is then managing the OVH portion of the connection.
3. A remote Edge / ICN (In Country Node) enabling a local connection to SIP Service Providers.

Limitation of ALE liability with respect to interconnection of SIP trunks:

1. Over Internet:

There is no quality of service and no SLA associated with this type of interconnection. ALE will not be responsible or liable in case of internet access failure. It is understood that the above SLA does not cover the availability of the Internet access.

2. Via a fiber cross-connection based on OVH Cloud Connect Dedicated:

Cross-connection is provided with no SLA. It is the partner responsibility to put in place the appropriate measures to mitigate any possible failure of this link, e.g. back-up plan over Internet or over a redundant fiber connection. ALE will not be responsible or liable in case of failure of such interconnection. It is understood that the above SLA does not cover the availability of this interconnection.

3. Via local Edge Components hosted in partner data center:

Edge components hosted in partner data center enable to connect local SIP Service Providers to the Rainbow platform. All PSTN incoming/outgoing calls will go through the local Edge components deployed in data center under the partner sole liability. ALE will be remotely managing these components, ALE will not be responsible or liable in case of unavailability of these components due to issues in the partner data center (e.g. failure of a server, electric power outage, network outage etc.). It is understood that ALE SLA does not cover the hosting of Edge components under the sole control of the partner

3.2 SLA conditions for Rainbow services except Rainbow Dial-in

Should ALE fail to meet the SLA during three (3) consecutive months, (i) Business Partner or Indirect Reseller may immediately terminate the affected User Accounts. Indirect Reseller shall notify Distributor of such termination, and (ii) Business Partner or Distributor may claim for a compensation equal to:

- 50% of the Subscription Fees of the affected User Accounts charged by ALE for the last Month, if during the 3 Months period the compounded regional SLI was less than 99.9%
- 100% of the Subscription Fees of the affected User Accounts charged by ALE for the last Month, if during the 3 Months period the compounded regional SLI was less than 99.5%

Paragraphs (i) and (ii) above shall be the sole remedy available to Business Partner or Distributor for the SLA breach.

Minimum Eligibility

Customer is entitled to the benefits of this compensation only if Customer maintains a minimum of fifty (50) Rainbow Business or Enterprise subscriptions and the Initial Term of the Agreement is at least twelve (12) months.

This compensation will be provided in the form of a credit note to Business Partner or Distributor upon ALE's acceptance of the claim.

To claim for compensation, Business Partner or Distributor shall submit a request through the Customer Service of the Business Portal providing the following information:

- Indirect Reseller's name and CRD ID if any
- End-Customer's name and list of User Accounts affected by the downtime
- Downtime period, claim explanation including relevant calculation

Claims must be submitted within 10 days after the end of the three (3) consecutive months affected by the downtime. All claims will be verified against ALE's records. Should ALE dispute any period of Service unavailability, ALE will provide Business Partner or Distributor with record of the Rainbow Service. This report will be acknowledged as sufficient and satisfactory legal evidence to show such service availability for Rainbow services during the affected months and throughout the Subscription Term. ALE will provide such record only in response to claims made by Business Partner or Distributor in good faith.

ALE has no obligation to comply with the above when Business Partner or Distributor is in breach of its obligations under the Rainbow Service Addendum or the Agreement, including without limitation if Business Partner or Distributor has failed to meet its payment obligations to ALE.

3.3 SLA conditions for Rainbow Dial-in

Should ALE fail to meet the SLA during three (3) consecutive months, Business Partner or Indirect Reseller may immediately remove the affected access rights to Rainbow Dial-in Service. This does not release Business Partner or Distributor from its obligation to pay all Rainbow Dial-in Subscription Fees due. This removal is the sole remedy available to Business Partner or Distributor for the SLA breach.

3.4 Rainbow Edge

The SLA are not applicable in case of Rainbow Edge Project where Data Center is provided by the partner or the end customer and is under their own responsibility.
